Reviewing your insurance cover

Delta Corporate Risk were established in 2001 and operate as an independent broker for industry and commerce. Delta Corporate act for a range of companies from small family businesses to PLC's on a nationwide basis. Since our formation we have actively placed cover for company directors and high net worth individuals whose requirements differ from those of standard personal policies.

As part of our offering to the legal sector we are able to provide competitively priced market leading cover in all areas of personal insurance to legal professionals.

Our range of products for professionals start with a mid-net worth buildings and contents product (Buildings £250k Contents £50k) up to an unlimited value for buildings and contents.

We aim to treat every customer as an individual and will provide confidential impartial and professional advice on a range of products from our panel of high net worth insurers.

We will provide you with guidance on how to value and adequately insure your possessions, provide information on other services such as specialist valuers, security consultants and suggest additional risk management measures to protect your assets. As well as providing a first class claims service in conjunction with our independent loss adjusting facility we regularly conduct confidential site visits and surveys where required.

In the current climate impersonal and automated insurance we prefer to offer a one to one personal service.

To review your personal covers we take the following steps:

- 1) We will review your existing arrangements and listen carefully to your requirements and priorities
- 2) We will select and approach those insurers who we feel are most suited to satisfying your personal requirements
- 3) We will undertake a full market analysis and negotiate best possible terms on your behalf
- 4) As we are an independent broker an impartial and detailed recommendation will be put forward advising why we feel the recommendation is most suitable
- 5) We will provide an ongoing service and a one to one account handler from Delta Corporate will be allocated to your account
